DESCRIPTION

CiviLink: Connecting Borders through e-CODEX Judicial Training is a European project coordinated by the National Institute of Magistracy (NIM - Romania), in collaboration with the Centre for Judicial Studies (CEJ – Portugal), the Judicial School of the General Council for the Judiciary (CGPJ – Spain), the National Institute of Justice (NIJ – Bulgaria), the National School of Judiciary and Public Prosecution (KSSiP – Poland), the School of the Judiciary (SSM – Italy), and the European Judicial Training Network (EJTN).

The project aims to strengthen cross-border judicial cooperation in civil matters by equipping judges and court staff with practical skills for using the e-CODEX system in the application of Recast Regulations (EU) 2020/1783 and 2020/1784 on the service of documents and the taking of evidence.

Through a comprehensive blended learning cycle, the project combines six transnational seminars - each preceded by an introductory webinar - and supported by e-learning tools including tutorials and reflective podcasts, all conducted in English. This structured approach not only enhances practical skills but also fosters cross-border dialogue among justice professionals, facilitating a harmonized application of EU law in civil cases across six Member States.
